I am very sorry, and realize now that I should have replied to all those questions 'I don't know'. But my one idea in the whole trying conversation was to testify to Mrs. Hall's character as a very human, loving woman - suffering, in spite of her great courage and the sense of humor - with that home been her salvation.
I realized at once that they felt an atmosphere of seclusion and reserve and that 'don't know' answers would only increase it. Neither did I dare pause and hesitate as if I were making up an answer -
